

7 Most Popular Hobbies In Australia

Australians are famed for being fun-loving and enjoying their free time. One of the main draws to many people who move to Australia is the work-life balance, but what do Aussies do with this free time?

Cricket

Australians are famed for their love of cricket, which dates all the way back to the 1800s. Many of the greatest players of the sport of all time are Australian, and the country's long-standing rivalry with England has been immortalized in the internationally-popular Ashes test cricket series. It is not just the national team representing Aussie cricket — cricket clubs can be found in almost any town or city!

Football

Cricket is not the only sport that is well-loved in Australia. AFL (Australian Rules Footy) is incredibly popular, particularly in the winter season, with millions attending stadium matches and smaller games happening in neighborhoods all over.

Surfing

It is no wonder that Australians love surfing so much. With so many of their cities and towns being on the coast and home to gorgeous beaches like Sydney's world-famous Bondi Beach, Australians love to take an opportunity to catch the waves! There is no shortage of great surfing spots in Australia.
